An attorney in Lieff Cabraser's Nashville office, Hannah Lazarz represents plaintiffs in state and federal courts nationwide in fertility, consumer fraud and product defect cases. Lazarz is a key member of Lieff Cabraser's fertility practice, representing hopeful parents whose eggs and embryos have been harmed by fertility companies, IVF genetic testing laboratories, cryogenic storage facilities, and IVF supply manufacturers.

Hannah also represents families in multidistrict litigation against medical device manufacturer Exactech, Inc., which involves the marketing and selling of defective knee, hip, and ankle replacement systems that have led to serious injuries in thousands of patients across the U.S.

Hannah previously served as a law clerk to the Honorable Eli Richardson of the United States District Court for the Middle District of Tennessee.
